

Fully fund the County's cost to administer State-mandated services for the developmentally disabled population

M.S.
§256B.77

In certain cases, counties act as administrative extensions of State government, enforcing State regulations or administering State programs; presumably State agencies that perform similar functions are adequately funded by State resources; counties should receive the same consideration when carrying out a State-wide function.